

Access2books

Our 'not-for-profit' community work publishes 75 point print with braille, and illustrated children's books.

We understand that teaching staff in SEN settings spend a lot of time making alternative formats. And, school library services tell us that many mainstream schools have difficulty finding alternative formats.

Our books are valuable in both situations. Their design enables most disabled children and adults to access and share their favourite stories with family and friends. As they are handmade you can request changes in the format design.

They provide inclusive story book time for your disabled children today and be available on the shelf for children and parents who come in the future.
